

TREVOR EVANS

CEO

National Retail
Association

As the NRA's Chief Executive Officer, Trevor is responsible for the day-to-day operations of the NRA and has extensive experience as a successful leader and a dynamic reformer.

He is an economist and lawyer with a strong background in regulation, compliance and advocacy. Trevor has also previously worked for the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC), as a tax policy advisor, and has considerable experience in government relations.

Commencing with the NRA in 2012, Trevor has a deep understanding of the retail industry and its challenges, coming from a family of four generations of retailers and shopkeepers.

Trevor is renowned for his very personable and humble nature, a trait most respected by his staff and the industry at large.

A strong advocate for the industry, Trevor takes seriously our obligation to represent our members to Government, and actively ensures that the retail and services sectors have a powerful voice at the table.

Trevor always has time for our members, working collaboratively with businesses, government decision-makers, consumers and other stakeholders, to ensure that critical business issues remain at the forefront of public debate and policy.

Topics:

- Retail and economic trends and forecasts;
- Innovation, digital and online retail;
- Careers in retail: jobs, skills, training and the workforce;
- Retail crime and loss prevention; and
- Business challenges, red tape and deregulation.

To book Trevor to speak or facilitate at your next event contact the NRA on 1800 RETAIL (738 245).